

Community-Building Conversations: Generating Ideas While Supporting Each other
Wednesday, March 25, 2020

Welcome

In the spirit of connection and community building, welcome to Community Conversations: Generating Ideas While Supporting Community. We're glad you're here. During this Wednesday afternoon chat, we will speak to our collective needs for social supports and explore new ideas to inspire and sustain each other. We'll begin as a whole group, spend some time in small group conversations, and conclude our time together naming/identifying future priorities.

Introduction

An invitation to shape a timely, responsive agenda for our School during a turbulent time.

Breakout Sessions

During this time, we'll support each other, learn together, and build community as we share coping strategies, tips, and tools. Three questions provide structure.

- How are you navigating this new world with its life-work challenges?
- What are your co-workers' views and needs?
- If think it's a good idea to hold future sessions, what recommendations do you have for our group's agenda?

Whole Group Sharing

- One person from each group will share out from the breakout discussion.

Thank you for joining us! Next Steps.....

- We are excited by the promise and possibilities of community building.
